Bio

Catherine Goenner was born in Kansas City, Missouri in 1985. She received her Associate of Arts degree from Northwest Arkansas Community College in 2010. She was a fellow of the Mid-America Arts Alliance 2019 Artist Inc. Program. She lives and works in Northwest Arkansas.

Since 2010 she has worked to build a portfolio including photorealistic paintings depicting mostly classic automobiles, pet portraits and people. She also works with cut magazine paper which has most recently evolved into an installation that she hopes to complete within the next year. Her work has been represented in festivals, galleries and art shows throughout Arkansas and Missouri.

Artist Statement

Catherine (Boley) Goenner has used many mediums in her portfolio over the years, finding it difficult to stay with just one specific way to create. From an early age she enjoyed drawing. Shortly after high school she learned to use acrylic paint (and oil paint from time to time). Later she began using cut magazine paper to make sculptures.

She has recently decided to broaden her scope once again with digital drawing. She has only been exploring this outlet since January. She is interested in discovering how it will transform her future work.
