Bio

A native of Fayetteville, I've recently re-emerged as an artist. I attended the School of the Art Institute of Chicago and completed my BFA in Painting at the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana. I did 2 years of masters work in Costume design at UIUC.

My practical life experience doing creative work includes restoring vintage houses and running my own tailoring business. I am currently represented by Art Ventures Gallery in Fayetteville.

My Art and costume work has been exhibited in Chicago, Champaign and Fayetteville.

Artist Statement

My goal in my current work is to tell a story through the assembling of discarded bits and pieces that evoke memories and emotion. I have a passion for using parts which seem useless on their own but can combine to create a thought provoking vignette. Each work tells a story that is very personal to me and is often created from the scraps of the person or place I am referencing. By keeping the narrative somewhat oblique I invite the audience to engage with their own interpretation.
