

I'm going to Walton Arts Center with my family and friends.

Walton Arts Center is on Dickson Street in Fayetteville. There are two entrances for us. The doors on Dickson Street take us into the Walker Atrium.

The doors on West Avenue lead into the Walmart Lobby, near Starr Theater.

Everyone needs a ticket to go to the theater. We may already have our tickets, or we may buy them at the Box Office or pick them up at Will Call. Our online tickets will be in our Digital Wallet.

WALTON ARTS CENTER

When we go in the building, we will walk through metal detectors, and security staff may search our bags. This helps keep everyone safe. Ushers will be stationed just beyond the metal detectors to scan our tickets.

We can spend time in the Walker Atrium or visit the Joy Pratt Markham Gallery. The lights will dim and chimes will sound when it is time for the show to start.

There are restrooms available if I need to use them.

When we are ready to find our seats, we will use the theater entrances. The smaller black box theater is called Starr Theater. It has one entrance.

Baum Walker Hall is a large Proscenium theater. It has a main floor and a balcony. If we have balcony seats, we will climb the stairs or take the elevator.

As we enter our theater, an usher will look at our tickets and help us find our seats. Our tickets will tell us exactly where to sit. The theater may be crowded and we may have to walk in front of people to find our seats.

When it is time for the show to start, the lights will dim and everyone will get quiet.

Some parts of the show are funny, and we can laugh. Some parts of the show may get a little loud, or the costumes and makeup may look strange. I will remember that nothing on the stage can hurt me – it's all pretend.

At the end of the show, all of the performers will come out on stage and bow. We clap and cheer, so the performers know we enjoyed the performance! If I REALLY liked the show, I can stand up and clap – this is called a standing ovation.

When the show is over, the lights will come back on and everyone will leave the theater. The aisles may be crowded as people exit. I will wait my turn to use the aisle and exit through the doors. My family and I will walk out through the Atrium and return home safely. Going to Walton Arts Center is so much fun!
